DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 7-9, 11, 14-16, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 3,217,935 to Burt.

Burt shows a pouring fitment as seen in Figs. 1-3, a cap 16, a sleeve housing 19, a spout 26, an air return passageway and radially extending hole 24 which position does not change with respect to the housing during use, annular ribs 22, depending annular wall 25 and spring 36.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 10, 20, 21 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 3,217,935 to R. V. Burt in view of US 4,917,268 to Campbell et al.

Burt shows all claimed features as discussed above except for a tapered spot with a diameter decreasing towards its outer end and an annular channel for catching dripping from the spout. Campbell shows a spout 14 that is tapered with a diameter decreasing towards its outer end and an annular channel 36 and 40 for catching dripping from the spout. It would have been obvious to a person with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Burt to include a tapered spout and a channel for catching dripping from the spout as taught by Campbell to facilitate directing the product at time of dispensing and prevent the moving parts of the spout from adhering to each other by residual product.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 2-6, 12, 13 and 17 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Campbell shows a liquid dispensing device. Donovan shows a retractable self-venting pouring spout. Rigel shows a spout assembly for bottles. Pear show a spout with cut-away openings.
